FAQs

Our FAQs present information on topics of interest to parents of breastfed children. Family physicians can provide immediate guidance on maintaining lactation when mother-infant separation is required. Medical schools and family medicine residencies should include appropriate curricula in lactation physiology and breastfeeding management so that family physicians are adequately trained to provide care to breastfeeding mothers and infants.

Weaning

Thinking of Weaning?

True self-weaning is usually gradual and happens after a child is a year old. The longer you can allow for your child to adjust to weaning, the easier it will be for him.

COVID

Generally, it is recommended that breastfeeding should be interrupted if the mother ingests most drugs of abuse, antimetabolite medications such as chemotherapeutic agents, and certain radioactive compounds.

Weaning Your Baby

Breastfeeding along with the addition of other foods is recommended for at least one year. These women can still participate in skin-to-skin contact and should be offered alternative approaches to feeding their infants if desired. If the baby stays firm on his refusal, get over the breastfeeding session in the afternoon completely and see if this makes him become hungry enough to try the bottle.
