Use for educational purposes is defined as the non-commercial and non-advertising use of images in presentations, lectures, school or university projects, and academic or research publications of which no more than 1,000 not-for-profit copies are printed. The simplified, symbolic composition, which is aesthetically close to poster art, is a frieze of the arms of five people, exaggeratedly elongated and thin, with their raised hands interlinked. It seems rather impractical to try and follow these laws in real life as they are tedious and complicated.
