The Dangers of "Higher Criticism"*

The reader will find interesting Bible Scriptures, offering a Christian perspective, for handling issues that may arise. Maybe you have neglected your Bible study simply because you would rather be doing something else you enjoy.

The Absurdity of "Higher Criticism" of the Gospels...

The next great landmark in Biblical criticism was furnished by the work of the Dutch scholar De Wette, who in 1806—07 proved the correctness of the guess of Thomas Hobbes that Deuteronomy was the lost book of the law found by Hilkiah in the Temple during the reign of Josiah and further indicated the key position of Deuteronomy as a product of the seventh century. Cavill claims that the teaches that persecutions are inherent to Christianity. Looking back upon the conflict today, one is impressed by the fact that the critics of the Bible possessed much more of its true spirit than did its orthodox defenders.

The History of the Higher Criticism by R. A. Torrey

The views which are now accepted as axiomatic by the Continental and British-American schools of Higher Criticism seem to have been first hinted at by Carlstadt in 1521 in his work on the Canon of Scripture, and by Andreas Masius, a Belgian scholar, who published a commentary on Joshua in 1574, and a Roman Catholic priest, called Peyrere or Pererius, in his Systematic Theology, 1660. It is reasoning from the Scriptures, explaining and proving, as one instructs in sound doctrine, many times having to overturn false reasoning before he can plant the seeds of truth.

Some have even hoped that some sort of accident would take their pain away for them. Biblical feminists argue that they are merely focused on creating equal opportunities to serve.

THE HISTORY OF THE HIGHER CRITICISM

The time-honored traditions of the Catholic Church are set at naught, and its thesis of the relation of inspiration and genuineness and authenticity derided. If it was not the resultant of a fortuitous concourse of Oriental myths and legendary accretions, and its Jahveh or Jahweh, the excogitation of a Sinaitic clan, it certainly was not given by the inspiration of God, and is not the Word of the living God.
