

Dorset agricultural labourer 1750-1850

Dorset Natural History and Archaeological Society - Swing Riots

Description: -

-Dorset agricultural labourer 1750-1850

-Dorset agricultural labourer 1750-1850

Notes: Reprinted from the proceedings of the Dorset Natural History and Archaeological Society, vol. 84.

This edition was published in 1963

Filesize: 23.910 MB

Tags: #West #Dorset

Life of an agricultural labourer

It also meant that a herd of pigs could be made ready for market more rapidly, so that a fall in total numbers kept at any one time did not necessarily mean a decline in annual output. The successful cultivation of turnips within a rotation was never an easy task on those Shropshire farms with a heavy, unyielding soil.

An Economic History of the English Poor Law, 1750

Cheers Guy Clare, I see you are from Lincolnshire.

PATERNALISM, THE MAGISTRACY AND POOR RELIEF IN ENGLAND, 1795

Trade unions were becoming popular and when George Loveless and others formed a union in Tolpuddle, the local government intervened trying to convict them of getting people to administer an illegal oath, which was meant to be for something else that included mutiny and treason within the military. The punishment received was seven years transportation, where the trouble makers would hopefully not return. More eloquent of the increasing acreage was the fact that the area under arable crops of all kinds reached its peak in 1875, at 430,783 acres, having increased by 3½ per cent.

The Dorchester Labourers and Swing's Aftermath in Dorset, 1830

The main effect of improvement outlay was simply to maintain the rent producing power of the estate, not to increase it. Until the mid 18th century ploughing with 5 yoked pairs of oxen had been a regular sight. Particularly in the uplands of south Shropshire the greater part of the newly inclosed commons became separate pastures, but some common land, even in the hilly districts, was capable of cultivation or conversion to meadow.

Tangaroa G33K, history and family history: The Tolpuddle Martyrs

To put it in another way, the large corn and sheep farmers of southern Wiltshire appear, by the seventies, to have evolved a high-cost farming system technically excellent no doubt, but economically unsound. Subsoiling was similarly encouraged by local interest groups including the Shropshire Agricultural Society, which the Hon.

Best agricultural labourers ancestry research websites

Nevertheless the Society's inter-parochial nature is also important to emphasize. From the time he began farming in the early 19th century Samuel Bickerton, of Sandford, found that allotments improved the labourers' moral character: 'a property at home' counteracted the allure of the public house.

Related Books

- Dante, poeta nazionale ed europeo
- Kinetic and mechanistic studies of elementary atmospheric reactions
- Descartes and the Enlightenment
- Market-based environmental laws - 100 ways to use prices to prevent pollution
- African heroes and heroines.