Cricket was played in the summer and two rugby teams — West of Scotland and Glasgow Academicals — had been established in the city in 1865 and 1866 respectively. Rebound in green cloth, gilt, frontis in good facsimile.

History of the Queen's Park Football Club 1867 1917 by Richard Robinson

The 1874 Queen's Park team that won the Scottish Cup The Glasgow Herald report on the game makes the following observation of the differences between both sides, The Englishmen had all the advantage of weight, their average being about two stones heavier than the Scotchmen and they had also the advantage in pace. Not unlike the successful side of 1981, there were few veterans, and the team mostly consisted of young players with little or no experience of football away from Queen's Park.
