CII task force report on Corporate Governance

The moratorium will provide an initial breathing space of 20 business days to the company. Additionally, it would make sense to me that asset managers who want to use these terms to name their funds or advertise their products should be required to explain to investors what they mean.

Governance writing the rules of the road (Proceedings)

Those are the ideas behind a 20-member task force commissioned by NRECA and the to examine the co-op governance process. As is the case for schemes, the relevant company, as well as any shareholder, creditor, liquidator or administrator, may apply to the court to convene meetings to approve the Plan.

It is therefore possible that the introduction of the ban may encourage some suppliers to terminate sooner than they would otherwise have done because of that.

The Case for Radical Corporate Governance Reform

Our symposium is going to create a first-class opportunity for a wide range of stakeholders interested in the advancement of corporate governance to explore what needs to be done to drive the change that is needed.

These are my thoughts on the matter of prescriptive ESG public company disclosure.

Information Security Governance: When Compliance Becomes More Important than Security

Creating a successful task force requires a lot more than asking for volunteers. Suppliers benefit from certain safeguards under the CIGA.

The Corporate Insolvency and Governance Act

In fact, I think it is beneficial for retail investors to have a wide array of choice and for such funds to compete with one another. In theory, it is possible for directors of companies with no reasonable prospect of avoiding an insolvent administration or an insolvent liquidation to continue trading through the Relevant Period whilst the financial position of the company and its creditors gets worse, without those directors incurring additional personal liability. The court has wide powers to determine the level of compensation payable by the director, but ordinarily a director could be personally liable to contribute towards any increase in the net deficiency in the amount available to pay creditors during the period of wrongful trading.
