The then Inniskilling Dragoon Guards were reportedly given £20,000 to help purchase the medals by. Surely these experiences help explain why Oates was often described as a resilient and determined person of great character. His death is seen as an act of self-sacrifice when, aware that the gangrene and frostbite from which he was suffering was compromising his three companions' chances of survival, he chose certain death for himself in order to relieve them of the burden of caring for him.
