California Final Decrees of Dissolution of Marriage,or Legal Separation Laws

Proving that there is a legally valid reason to get an annulment can be very difficult.

Marriage and marriage dissolution in California :

However, an appeal, which must be filed within 30 days of judgment from a decree granting a divorce that does not challenge the finding that the marriage is irretrievably broken, does not delay the finality of the decree, and thus allows either of the parties to remarry pending appeal. Whether a particular action constitutes a rendition of judgment is a question of fact. See last paragraph of entry for change of position.

Follow the procedures in for submitting to the RCC questions about whether another jurisdiction would give effect to the termination provision where one party died within 30 days of the divorce decree. There is no waiting period after the entry of the final divorce decree during which the parties to the divorce are prohibited from remarrying.

Marriage and marriage dissolution in California :

If the divorce proceeding is uncontested as to the grounds for divorce, either party may remarry before the time for appeal has expired.

Annulment

A divorce decree may also indicate whether the guilty party may ever remarry. Seek legal assistance to determine which method is right for you.

Force: force means threats or acts of harm were used to force one spouse or partner into the marriage or domestic partnership.

SSA

A remarriage in any State prior to the expiration of that 1-year is void, because the decree granted has the same effect as a decree nisi and does not sever the marital ties. During this six-month period, the parties to the dissolution remained legally married. If such a party entered into a subsequent marriage in Virginia without having that part of the divorce decree revoked, the marriage would be void.
