Government intervention in the housing market: what works? — Institute of Economic Affairs

Under the Tory-led coalition, the amount of affordable housing delivered across the country fell by a third — from 53,000 homes completed in 2010 to 36,000 in 2014.

Private rented housing: problems for tenants on a low income

A review of RSL's policies and behaviour would be fair, as they distort the market.

How Housing in London went into Crisis

But this will affect even more people than it does currently; and may affect families in particular. My point is that all forms of intervention seek to create change for a particular purpose — to engineer change — but that some are more benign than others in their effects, even though the method of implementation was pretty brutal.

Housing and Health: Time Again for Public Health Action

PROBLEMS REGARDING HOUSING BENEFIT ARE THAT AN INCREASING NUMBER OF TENANTS USE IT FOR OTHER THINGS AND GET INTO DEBT, PARTICULARLY SINGLE MOTHERS WITH TWO OR THREE KIDS. You can complain about a person or an organisation for poor service, or for mistakes that affect you.

Housing scandal: ITV News uncovers widespread problems with leaks, damp and mould in tower blocks across UK

The applicant suffered a permanent disability, requiring him to use a wheelchair, and his property was no longer suitable. The local authority already has the power to police such matters, and my contact at our local authority not in the most affluent part of the North West put the 'problem' figure at about 5% of landlords, and that most of those respond to a 'nudge' from them, leaving very few problem properties.

She wanted to get away from him and the area they lived in, which was hardly surprising.

Contempt for tenants and unscrupulous private landlords: Inside council housing offices

For example, when public health staff assisted Healthy Homes participants in asking their landlords to make repairs, the tenants' requests were often more adequately addressed than when tenants tried on their own.
