Ulysses S. Grant First Inaugural Address

In regard to foreign policy, I would deal with nations as equitable law requires individuals to deal with each other, and I would protect the law-abiding citizen, whether of native or foreign birth, wherever his rights are jeopardized or the flag of our country floats. Having made alternate choice of two different arms of service with different uniforms, I could not get a uniform suit until notified of my assignment. In view of the immense bodies of men moved on the same day over narrow roads, through dense forests and across large streams, in our late war, it seems strange now that a body of less than three thousand men should have been broken into four columns, separated by a day's march.

Ulysses S. Grant

Brown was a boy when they lived in the same house, but he knew him afterwards, and regarded him as a man of great purity of character, of high moral and physical courage, but a fanatic and extremist in whatever he advocated. This left me in command of the company, an honor and responsibility I thought very great. I will favor any course toward them which tends to their civilization and ultimate citizenship.

The Mexicans had passed them and formed their lines on the opposite bank. I was obliged to go to St.

The Celebrity Soldier: Ulysses S. Grant

I read all of Bulwer's then published, Cooper's, Marryat's, Scott's, Washington Irving's works, Lever's, and many others that I do not now remember.

Ulysses S. Grant's First Inaugural Address (1869)

Grant led an army south on the west side of the Mississippi past Vicksburg, then crossed over and led his troops back north to lay to the city.

I was regimental quartermaster at the time and was ordered to remain in charge of camp and the public property at Walnut Springs. He may be a believer or a disbeliever in it, or he may be neither. I recollect but one occasion when this observance seemed to be broken by the inhabitants.

Ulysses S. Grant's First Inaugural Address (1869)

At no time have we been favored with success in the prosecution of the war, as during the time in which Gen. I reported at West Point on the 30th or 31st of May, and about two weeks later passed my examination for admission, without difficulty, very much to my surprise.
