Zukai yoku waku Kojin jōhō hogohō to puraihashi māku (2005 edition)

The general regulations covering protection of the personal information held by local public bodies include provisions formulated by these bodies themselves, and local personal-information protection laws have by now been passed by all local governments at both the prefectural and municipal levels.

Chikujo kaisetsu Kojin joho hogoho (edition)

These locally adopted laws on the protection of personal information feature innovative provisions in some cases, but legal creativity and innovations are visible across the board and not only at the level of prefectures, designated metropolises and core cities but also in the information disclosure provisions adopted by ordinary cities and townships. However, discussion of the Act on the Protection of Personal Information Held by Independent Administrative Agencies concentrates on the points in which it differs from the Act on the Protection of Personal Information Held by Administrative Organs on the grounds that a thorough understanding of the latter will afford the reader a good grasp of the former. Tōkyō : Kabushiki Kaisha Yūhikaku MLA Citation Uga, Katsuya.

At the end of the book, the texts of seventeen relevant laws and ordinances are given, along with precedents and reports by the Review Board, and the reader is encouraged to make the best use of these reference materials. Bearing this in mind, this publication includes a comprehensive survey of local personal-information protection laws from the prefectural level down, with more detailed coverage of noteworthy provisions adopted at both the prefectural and municipal levels.
