

Master Fynes his speech in Parliament - touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000 l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland.

Printed for F.C. and T.B - [TCP] Master Fynes his speech in Parliament: touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland.

Description: -

-Master Fynes his speech in Parliament - touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000 l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland.

-Master Fynes his speech in Parliament - touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000 l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland.

Notes: Wing F-879.

This edition was published in 1641

Filesize: 6.11 MB

Tags: #Master #Fynes #his #speech #in #Parliament: #touching #the #proffer #of #the #citie #of #London #by #the #Lord #Maior: #on #Thursday #the #17. #of #February, #1641. #to #disburse #60000l. #towards #the #suppressing #the #rebellion #in #Ireland.

Master Fynes his speech in Parliament: [microform] : touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland in SearchWorks catalog

B Classifications LC Classifications 1641 The Physical Object Pagination xvi, 107 p. Meanwhile, the spirit of The Wolf inhabits Rose, Henry's jilted lover. And thus much of the reasons why I conceive these propositions of the Citie of London is convenient and necessary to be consented unto, and confirmed by Parliament: which notwithstanding I humbly leave to the further consideration of this Honourable House.

Master Fynes his speech in Parliament: touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland.

The item Master Fynes his speech in Parliament : touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. B London Wikipedia Citation Please see for further citation fields that may be required. Niti smo mi pustinjско rastinje niklo na jednoj majusnoj planeti, u oazi praznine.

Master Fynes his speech in Parliament [microform] : touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to disburse 60000l. towards the suppressing the rebellion in Ireland

Catalogue Persistent Identifier APA Citation Fiennes, Nathaniel. Laftly, hereby may forraigne States be mo ved to withdraw their ayde and afflitance, intended to fupply the Rebels withall, when they fhall per ceive that fuch force is providing of all forts of men for fupply of the Proteftants, and the reaſons and grounds which moves them fo willingly to take Armes, that it is very improbable and unlikely fuch fucceſſe of their enterprifes will follow as is defired: And that the Rebels are very unconftant if in danger to be overcome, and confidering the unjuſtneſſe of their cauſe, being onely publique rebel lion againſt their lawfull Sovereigne, onely cloaked and covered under the bare title of the defence of their Religion, and pretended liberties in the exer ciſe thereof in that Kingdome, they I conceive will be the more cautious how they intangle them ſelves in the defence of their unjuſt quarrell.

Master Fynes his ſpeech in Parliament [microform] : touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to diſburſe 60000l. towards the ſuppreſſing the rebellion in Ireland

Master Fynes his ſpeech in Parliament touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior on Thursday the 17. B MLA Citation
Fiennes, Nathaniel.

Master Fynes his ſpeech in Parliament [microform] : touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to diſburſe 60000l. towards the ſuppreſſing the rebellion in Ireland

The rebellion in Ireland is ſo generall, that it is not the force of one Army can ſuppreſſe them in every place; and if the like proffer were made ei-ther by other Cities, or the Merchants joyne together, or if any great perſonages in this Kingdome, whereof money or armes, or what force they could raiſe for other ſeverall places in ſubjection to the Rebels, and upon ſuch propoſitions to be preſented unto the Parliament; I conceive it would be the ſpeedieſt courſe to ſubdue the Rebels, and reduce that Kingdome to the due obedience to His Maſteſtie and the Crowne of England, and to the Lawes and Ordinances made by His Maſteſtie, and His States of both Kingdomes. And thus much of the reaſons why I conceive theſe propoſitions of the Citie of London is convenient and neceſſary to be conſented unto, and confirmed by Parliament: which notwithstanding I humbly leave to the further confideration of this Honourable Houſe. Master Fynes his ſpeech in Parliament touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior on Thursday the 17.

Master Fynes his ſpeech in Parliament

That if nought be recovered from them, they are willing to loſe their money.

Master Fynes his ſpeech in Parliament: [microform] : touching the proffer of the citie of London by the Lord Maior: on Thursday the 17. of February, 1641. to diſburſe 60000l. towards the ſuppreſſing the rebellion in Ireland in SearchWorks catalog

If your book is not available on E-ZBorrow, you can request it through ILLiad ebooks unavailable. Department provided a ſtaff-level briefing on the iſſue on. That all that ſhall be wonne, both lands and goods, from the Rebels, by the Army paid with their money, may be theirs for the ſame.

Related Books

- Walnut Creek National Wildlife Refuge - welcome back to the tallgrass prairie!
- Olmsted Home, St. Pauls Canaveral Seashore, Congressional Cemetery, Afro-American Museum - hearing b
- Kwahaksa kaeron
- Trust and Loan Companies Act - explanatory notes
- Heads & figures - a study of the human figure from the antique to the present day.