Correctional Officers and the Incarcerated Mentally Ill: Responses to Psychiatric Illness in Prison

Fifteen studies compared PUB hospitals to PFP hospitals. Implications: Correctional health promotion programs can impact overall knowledge and behaviours, which can impact the overall health of offenders. The majority of offenders receive initial mental health services according to established time-frames; clinical health services are not tracked electronically.

Correctional Officers and the Incarcerated Mentally Ill: Responses to Psychiatric Illness in Prison

CSC is mandated through federal legislation and corporate requirements to provide health services for federal offenders. Next, the responses from the victims and offenders themselves were examined.

Evaluation of the Collaborative Justice Project: A Restorative Justice Program for Serious Crime 2005

A priori codes were utilized along with codes derived from an iterative inductive and deductive process.

Toward An Enhanced Understanding of HIV Patient Navigation as a Health Care Intervention: An Analysis of Navigation in Practice

This evaluation has shown value of the restorative approach, when compared to the traditional justice system approach; however, the results may not be generalizable to all restorative justice participants, or to all victims and offenders who experience the traditional criminal justice system. Where victims or offenders chose not to participate in a face-to-face meeting but were interested in receiving support, the CJP staff would work with them to explore indirect mechanisms for reparation and healing. In 2014-15, 24% of federal offenders were 50 years or older compared to 45% of the Canadian population and the number of offenders over the age of 50 at admission has risen over the last ten years.

Toward An Enhanced Understanding of HIV Patient Navigation as a Health Care Intervention: An Analysis of Navigation in Practice

A total of 25 victims completed the fear-rating question in both the pre-measure questionnaire and the post-program interview. Effect sizes varied between 0.

Evaluation of the Collaborative Justice Project: A Restorative Justice Program for Serious Crime 2005

Participants were asked a number of process-related questions. At the pre-program stage, 85.

COMMUNITY STRATEGY FOR WOMEN OFFENDERS

The CCRA sections 81 and 84 also sets out the role of Aboriginal communities in addressing the needs of Aboriginal offenders and providing correctional services to assist in this reintegration. CORCAN staff approached the education staff to facilitate technical math classes for those interested in participating in the welding program. Moreover, children with dyslexia were more inaccurate and variable during multi-limb motions such as walking and clapping to a metronome beat compared to typically developing children.
