Photo Credit: David Monniaux Details: Purple Sea Urchins are green when they are young and turn purple with age. When water is polluted, they show signs quickly, allowing people to clean it up and prevent other species from getting sick. As with one of the earlier reviewer commented, this was written and translated as a German book; maybe some fish types are not allowed to be sold in Germany but it is quite sad to see them selling the English version worldwide missing some of the most common species of fish that marine aquarist kept.
