Political Involvement in Nursing—Politics, Ethics, and Strategic Action

When they choose to take on the role of policy advocate to change the system, nurses often have to move out of the comfort zone of their practice arena and into less familiar arenas where the laws and regulations impacting patient care are developed, and the battles for scarce resources are negotiated and decided. HHPCO has a directory of advance directives that are acceptable to each state. Perhaps a given community healthcare institution is considering a remodeling or expansion project.

Reporting & resolving nursing home problems

Another form of connection would be a care manager alerting a primary care provider when their clients are within the goals of health outcomes and prompt the primary care providers about what could be discussed or revised for the client to improve these goals.

Political Involvement in Nursing—Politics, Ethics, and Strategic Action

Sessions may be given in day-long formats, or in shorter sessions, such as grand rounds. Strategies for Effective Action in the Legislative Arena As nurses get ready to take their issues into the legislative arena and to use their legislative power and political clout, it is essential to determine which strategies will be timely and most effective.

Smartwatches in Healthcare Drive Insights and Action

Another priority is to promote diversity. The report, titled The Future of Nursing: Leading Change, Advancing Health, was published in 2010.

Influencing Health Care in the Legislative Arena

Nurses can help facilitate these steps of getting a sponsor, making the proposal, and persuading potential co-sponsors to sign on with their support. Misperceptions about hospice are common.

Effective nursing leadership: How to be an effective nurse leader.

Two sets of competencies are specifically noted in the IOM report as requisites for more effective leadership on the part of nurses; a critical set of competencies that form the foundation for any level of effective leadership and a narrower specific set of competencies that reflect a more particular time and place.
