The Vaisesika aphorisms of Kanāda : with comments from the Upaskāra of Sankara

When she saw them, she glanced at them, and they were all frightened. It is very possible that, in opposition to this theory, the Buddhist sound of one hand clapping is a counter example to this. These men will take away your land and your wealth.

Silenced by Herbs

They sing songs to everyone, you know? However, unlike the other instances, she had died with her mouth wide open and her face facing the sky. Many people, mostly of the Kamba ethnicity have heard a different version of the story.

Silenced by Herbs

Syokinau would tell us when the community was about to be attacked and offer prayers for our warriors before they went to war. They will also have a fire in their hands.

Indian Philosophy

He will not spare me for a moment. The first five are called bhūtas, the substances having some specific qualities so that they could be perceived by one or the other external senses.
