Delacroix to Monet: Masterpieces of 19th

Murnaghan Curator of Renaissance and Baroque Art, with Eric Gordon, Head of Paintings Conservation; Karen French, Senior Paintings Conservator; and Pamela Betts, Senior Paintings Conservator. Statues, set on columns in the Roman style, represent the virtues of a good ruler based on the traditional cardinal chief moral virtues celebrated since antiquity, both in Greco-Roman culture and in the Old Testament: Justice with her sword and scales, Liberality generosity with a cornucopia, Moderation with a pitcher of water to mix with the basin of wine, and Fortitude with her column.

The Ideal City

The Walters Art Gallery, Baltimore. February 16, 2016 Baltimore, MD —Carlo Crivelli, ca.

Delacroix to Monet: Masterpieces of 19th

This extraordinary panel exemplifies Renaissance ideals of urban planning, respect for Greco-Roman antiquity, and the mastery of central perspective. The paper addresses the environment in Padua in the 1440s, and the school of Squarcione, where Dario and Mantegna were said to be rivals, the adaptations of Roman sculpture to be seen there including the source for the earliest classical nude Venus in Venetian art, as well as the importance of the myth of Trojan ancestry for Venice and the significance of the marriage for the Corner and for Venice. A Renaissance Original: Carlo Crivelli is generously supported by an anonymous donor and by members and contributors to the annual fund.
