The results of our study suggest that a simple flexibility and strengthening exercise programme, targeting a maximum work effort range of 60%—80%, could improve fatigue and sleep quality among long-term haemodialysis patients. Doctoral GE responsibilities in focal departments may vary, but generally involve serving as teaching or research assistants.

Environmental Studies < Yale University

Until now no environmental studies have been conducted, though some very general documents have been prepared, for example, on approaches to environmental management of specific industries such as forestry.
