The Post

It was formed when a group of nine priests split from the Society of St. The original, however, was one of the basilicas built by the Emperor Constantine in the very early years of the Peace of the Church, along with those of the two Apostles, Lawrence, and the cathedral of Rome at the Lateran. ## The Problem of the Liturgical Reform: A... book by Society of Saint Pius X

They have a method and a mindset which lack justice and charity and consequently the true sentire cum ecclesia, and there is the danger of an ecclesial autocephaly and to be the last judicial instance in the Church. There is a confusing rubric for Matins on page 2 of that book that I've asked about in other forums with no response.

The Status of the Society of St. Pius X (Part 1)

You have a wonderful sense of humor and your sly references to the wonders of Vatican Two are greatly appreciated by me. Hopefully having it linked in Rorate Caeli will bring the Divine office to the attention of many. The society now has close links with the , led by Father , a priest formerly of the , who was definitively excommunicated from the Catholic Church in November 2007 after having Bishop , then of the SSPX but expelled from the society five years later, illicitly ordain two priests and seven deacons for his society in violation of of the Code of Canon Law.

RORATE CÆLI: Divino Afflatu centennial

And let us not forget the priests. Code of Canon Law, canon 265 and also because those ordained after the schismatic Episcopal ordinations were ordained by an excommunicated bishop.

Vatican II's Liturgical Reform

We have witnessed not a reform but a revolution—and a triumphant revolution.

Tradition (SSPX) from Cenacle Catholic Books

Dancing formed no part of the prescribed ritual for Jewish worship in either the Temple or the synagogue. Yet, this definition and this rite omits or denies the three doctrines which are at very heart of the Mass: the priest who, by his sacerdotal character, is alone capable of consecrating the Eucharist; the propitiatory sacrifice of the Mass; and the real and substantial presence of the Victim of Calvary through transubstantiation. Lefebvre argued that his actions had been necessary because the traditional form of the Catholic faith and sacraments would become extinct without Traditionalist clergy to pass them on to the next generation.
