Encouraging Ethical Conduct for Multinational Businesses

During the last two decades a fundamental shift in corporate attitude has taken place.

A Human Rights Approach to Developing Voluntary Codes of Conduct for Multinational Corporations on JSTOR

International trade cannot be conquered with our military might. BEQ maintains a contemporary focus on international business and is particularly interested in articles that discuss global business and economic concerns.

Why corporate America needs to have a code of conduct for China

This is truly a landmark event. This being said, Europe and Sweden are also moving towards a similar trend. This may seem self-understood to the Swedish company, but can be hard to grasp for the procured Chinese supplier.

About Levi Strauss & Co.

So the idea is to use the Code of Conduct as a support for misleading advertisement. The Principles are much more detailed.

Encouraging Ethical Conduct for Multinational Businesses

In a small town in Mexico, one of our contractors started a program that purchases books and other school supplies for students costs which in the past limited basic education opportunities to children from wealthier families. The principles seek to contribute to the development of the world economy.

Codes of Conduct for Multinational Enterprises, Journal of World Trade

Provided the human rights obligations of multinational corporations are interpreted as moral obligations specifically tailored to the situation of multinational corporations, this could serve to bring powerful moral force to bear on MNCs and could provide a legitimating basis for NGO monitoring and persuasion. However, in spite of its relevance for civil law systems, this proposal has not been consecrated by jurisprudence. The future developments are in the hands of the Courts, unless the legislator takes a step for more responsibility of Multinational companies.

About Levi Strauss & Co.

Page 1 : scope of application of the Code : ... and an explicit reference to the law : Page 2 : The prohibition of Child Labour : And still no legal value... So when this happens : what do we do? Codes of conduct constitute such relevant public statements. Even worse, if it is the custom to do so in that country, do you pay bribes to officials who are supposed to enforce regulations so they'll look the other way? For any individual business facing heat from Beijing, the commercial incentive is typically to cave to protect corporate market share in China. The OECD is made up of most the United States and most countries in Europe, as well as Japan, Mexico, Australia and New Zealand.
