Apparently, these mazes were inspired by the Greek legend of the half-man, half-bull Minotaur, who was trapped in a maze and fed on the young men who entered it.

A Brief History of Mazes

Labirinto della Masone Labyrinth of the Mason , , Italy This star-shaped maze can be found in an Italian town within the province known for. Popular consensus also indicates that labyrinths have one pathway that leads inexorably from the entrance to the goal, albeit by the most complex and winding of routes. Designed by Girolamo Frigimelica for Doge Alvise Pisani in 1720, the maze is a classic medieval circular path surrounding a small turret with nine layers and many dead ends.
