The project goal was to develop a software tool, AIRM master, and a methodology for performing compressed air system audits.

Auditing Courses

Since changes may have occurred after the publication date that would affect the accuracy of these documents, no guarantees are made concerning the technical accuracy after the publication date. Know-how on energy-efficiency technologies and practices should, therefore, be prepared and disseminated to textile plants. ATGs explain industry-specific examination techniques and include common, as well as, unique industry issues, business practices and terminology.

Auditing Courses

This may include plant engineers, maintenance supervisors, or maintenance technicians. See form and instructions below.
