Windows NT Facts for Kids

Note: If you plan on making more than ten connections to a Rational Project, we recommend that you use a Window NT Server as your database server. The suggested workaround is to insert appropriate delays into the test script at state transition points in the application-under-test. Also, Exponent is launched at the end of the setup program to ensure it has full administrator rights even when the UAC is switched on and all folders and registry keys are pre-created at that time to ensure the correct permissions can be assigned so that standard user can use the software on subsequent log-ins.

Smalltalk/X Architecture specific features

- Recognition methods for Java applications can be very long. The feature is not officially released for that architecture.
