Ceremonial Objects

Beyond objects secured for use in the exhibits, these collaborations have provided invaluable contacts and opportunities for further collections enhancements. Special decorative plates have also been designed for the bringing of the food-gifts on Purim

Ceremonial Objects

The Northwest Coast collection is small but includes examples of stone art and excavated collections such as the Eburne site Great Fraser Midden.

Other significant collections derive from the central Arctic and Greenland. Jewish tradition depicts the Torah not only as the tree of life, but also as a bride and daughter of the king, understood as the God of Israel: thus, it must be regally dressed in a manner befitting a bride or princess and this most likely explains why it was crowned. Subsequently, his gifts totaled 5,000 objects, amounting to about 50 percent of the museum's holdings.
