The New Yorker archives

Ships with tracking the same or next business day from New Haven, CT. Even the drabbiest yardscape achieves something like elegance when a junco alights in the foreground—a beautifully turned-out little character who looks as though he were on his way to an afternoon wedding. He also noted that the result of this assignment was a worldwide variety of global foci from which the students viewed the world.

When the barber was through, a farmboy asked for a hair trim. There is nothing like it.

Writings from 'The New Yorker' 1927

White, and Poems and Sketches of E. It was a vain hope.

Writings from The New Yorker 1927

Ebba Johnson, head librarian at The New Yorker from 1934 to 1970, now deceased, and Helen Stark, the current librarian, deserve appreciation as the curators of those White scrap-books.

Writings from the New Yorker: 1925

And in the lily of the valley is a subtle substance that makes the heart slow down. In matchless style White writes about everything from cicadas to Khrushchev, from Thoreau to hyphens, from academic freedom to lipstick, from New York garbage men to the sparrow, from Maine to the space age, from the Constitution to Harold Ross and even the common cold. A new pickle, early, dark green, delicious.
