The consideration of potential hazard from vibration at an early stage of the planning will determine the desirability of trial blasting during the site investigation programme. It isn't known if the two homes mentioned here were damaged in the work, but extensive damage appeared in many other homes along the path of the work, which experienced lower measured vibration velocities, as indicated in footnote 4.

There will be some circumstances in which construction operations must be performed inside safe distances. Diagrams like those on this page, which were generated in Excel, can be easily created on a computer or graphing calculator, by providing the desired values for the exponent and the PPV ref in the FTA equation or any of the related ones.
