Then, the interrelations are determined, which include aspects such as relative location and size e.

What Is Perception?

While it may be obvious that people are capable of recognizing objects under many variations in conditions, it has been thought that pigeons may not possess the same range of capabilities. Patients with frontal lobe lesions also showed evidence of marked anterograde and relatively mild retrograde face memory impairment. One could also imagine that the hull and mast alone might produce moderately accurate recognition, but it is unlikely that the sailboat would be identified from the mast alone.
