Caribbean Area Plant Materials Program

The training will enable CARICOM Member States to more effectively implement the CARREX system and market surveillance processes for non-food consumer goods. Subject to the relevant provisions of this Treaty, Community Organs and Bodies shall establish their rules of procedure. The Member States shall grant freedom of transit within the Community with respect to goods and vessels and other vehicles transporting those goods.

Projects of the Caribbean Community

Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, the Member States shall remove discriminatory restrictions on banking, insurance and other financial services. These institutions have facilitated collective action in such areas as the purchasing of pharmaceuticals and medical supplies, navigational aids and airline operation policy, joint trade promotion, joint investment promotion activities, and regulation of telecommunications for the member states. Each Member State shall refrain from trade policies and practices, the object or effect of which is to distort competition, frustrate free movement of goods and services, or otherwise nullify or impair benefits to which other Member States are entitled under this Treaty.

Projects of the Caribbean Community

The Member States shall notify CO TED of existing restrictions on the right of establishment in respect of nationals of other Member States. The concerns stemmed from the perceived increased permeability of the regional market to unsafe consumer products, which were facing growing difficulties in entering neighbouring territories where market surveillance systems were more effective.
