The vast network structure of the interconnections improves economics by allowing generators to be optimally sited and helps maintain the stability and reliability of the grid by delivering multiple pathways for power to flow. The community of Wilson, North Carolina, has had a public fiber broadband network in place since 2008. Targeting TV audiences in an ever-evolving multimedia space As the pay TV landscape faces increased competition from over-the-top OTT media and other non-linear streaming alternatives, marketers have started to adapt their advertising strategies to the changes in viewing behavior and preferences.

Top TV advertisers and the ongoing battle for contested ad space Eight decades after the first commercial aired on U. The language of the law is so vaguely worded, experts say, that they would open up any such project to a range of disagreements and challenges by incumbent telecom providers. Despite the ongoing digitalization of the advertising industry and the proliferation of online video streaming services, marketers are still embracing the potential of linear television for brand promotion.
