Should You Set up a Revocable Living Trust?

Wills Trusts have many advantages, but one of the most significant might be that, unlike a last will and testament, a trust can prevent the details of one's estate from becoming available to the public.

This can usually be avoided by transferring ownership of the real estate to your trust during your lifetime.

What is a revocable living trust?

Step 14 — Article 15 pertains to the number of days a person must survive the Grantor in order to make a claim on the Trust. With no trust in place, you may need a guardianship or conservatorship if you also do not have power of attorney. The trustee, however, can make decisions only about property already in the trust.
