After which, the king, in his 33d year, settled it by letters patent, by his dotation-charter, on his new-erected dean and chapter of Rochester, part of whose possessions it remains at this time. Tan House, mile east of the church, south of the Rowington road, has been much renovated and enlarged. Below the western window the wall is thickened outside and contains a pair of similar lights complete with pointed heads and segmental-pointed rear-arches, the ledges 1 ft.

Parish of Kingswood

There were evidently two parks in Lapworth by the end of the 13th century, as Ives Pipard, rector of Lapworth, remitted to Mr. Never had a pair of shoes or stockings in his life. The Boteler estates were divided between two coheirs, and at his death in 1487 Henry Belknap held a moiety of the manor of Kingswood.

Kingswood House

Radclyffe Kingswood Warren It is a curious fact that from Saxon times Kingswood, a distant enclave measuring less than three miles long and one mile wide and containing about 1800 acres, surrounded by Banstead, Chipstead, Gatton and Reigate, had been attached to the manor of Ewell probably as a royal game preserve. Near the east end of the south wall is a semi-octagonal bracket-basin without a drain, presumably a stoup for holy water.

The upper part flanking the window is of roughly squared and later stones. In the time of king Edward the Confessor, it was worth ten pounds, when he received it eight pounds, now ten pounds. After which they passed in like manner as that of East Farborne before-mentioned down to Philip-Dormer Stanhope, earl of Chesterfield, who, in 1750, sold them, with the rest of the Wotton estates in this part of the county, to Galfridus Mann, esq.
