The Basic Plastic Injection Molding Process

L is based on São Paul, Brazil. The most common type of side-action is a side-core which enables an external undercut to be molded.

There are many different gate designs available based on the size and shape of your part. A wide variety of products are manufactured using injection molding, which vary greatly in their size, complexity, and application. After the injection molding cycle, some post processing is typically required.

The mold has many components, but can be split into two halves. Aluminum molds cost substantially less than steel molds, and when higher grade aluminum such as QC-7 and QC-10 aircraft aluminum is used and machined with modern computerized equipment, they can be economical for molding hundreds of thousands of parts.
